Notice of Appeal (AAS13358)

Fillable working copy, with a plain-language guide

READ THIS FIRST

This is a fillable working copy that captures everything the official AAS13358 asks. It opens and fills on any phone, tablet or computer. It is NOT an official Government of Alberta form.

The official form is at cfr.forms.gov.ab.ca/form/AAS13358. It only opens in Adobe Acrobat Reader on a computer.

Before you send this copy, ask the Appeals Secretariat: "Will you accept this working copy of AAS13358?" If they say no, ask them to email or mail you the official form.

This copy was rebuilt from the current official version, AAS13358 Rev. 2026-08, downloaded from the government site on 18 October 2026. Note that the government's own file still carries the words "Draft Nov. 18, 2025" printed on page one.

TIME LIMITS. READ THIS BEFORE ANYTHING ELSE

AISH, ADAP, Income Support, Alberta Child Health Benefit and Alberta Adult Health Benefit: 30 days. The form says a decision "may be appealed within 30 days of receiving a verbal or written notice of the decision and the right to appeal."

FSCD: 45 days from receiving notice of the decision.

If you are past the limit, file anyway and use the box on the form that asks you to explain why it is late. Do not let the deadline stop you from filing.

What this form is for

This one form starts an appeal under six programs. It goes to the Appeals Secretariat, which the form describes as "a neutral government office that is separate from the AISH, ADAP, Income Support, ACHB, AAHB, and FSCD programs."

- Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped (AISH)
- Alberta Disability Assistance Program (ADAP)
- Income Support
- Alberta Child Health Benefit (ACHB)
- Alberta Adult Health Benefit (AAHB)
- Family Support for Children with Disabilities (FSCD)

The form says plainly: "Not all director decisions are appealable."

What cannot be appealed, in the form's own words

> Medical eligibility decisions for the AISH program cannot be appealed (e.g., decisions from the AISH Medical Review Panel).

> Individuals who were receiving AISH benefits and whose files were transitioned to ADAP in July 2026 cannot appeal the transition to ADAP. Instead, these individuals can choose to complete the new Disability Income Assistance application to be assessed for AISH. Alberta's government will cover the cost of one medical assessment for current AISH clients who transition to ADAP in July 2026 and later choose to be assessed for AISH. This medical assessment cost assistance is not time-limited and will be available whenever clients choose to access it. This does not affect appeal rights for other decisions under AISH or ADAP.

Read that second one carefully. If you were moved from AISH to ADAP in July 2026, the move itself is not appealable, but the government says it will pay for one medical assessment if you apply to be assessed for AISH, with no time limit on when you use it.

The rule that catches people: no new information

> As per section 5(1.1) of the AISH Applications and Appeals (Ministerial) Regulation, the Citizen's Appeal Panel cannot consider any information that has not already been considered by AISH and ADAP. If you have new information or are waiting for documents, please contact your local AISH or ADAP office so a worker can consider your new information before you file an appeal.

In plain words: the panel can only look at what the program already saw. If you have a new letter from your doctor, get it to your worker first, so that it is part of the file before the hearing.

Before you send this in

- Watch the clock. 30 days for AISH, ADAP, Income Support, ACHB and AAHB. 45 days for FSCD. If you are late, file anyway and explain why in the box provided.
- Get new information to your worker first. The panel cannot look at anything the program has not already seen.
- Include your file number and attach the decision letter if you got one.
- Keep a copy of everything, and note the date you sent it and who you sent it to.
- Ask for the accommodation you need. The form has a box for it. An advocate counts as an accommodation.
- If you were moved from AISH to ADAP in July 2026, the move itself cannot be appealed, but the government says it will pay for one medical assessment whenever you choose to be assessed for AISH.
