Consent to Release Information (AAS13391)

Fillable working copy, with a plain-language guide

READ THIS FIRST

This is a fillable working copy that captures everything the official AAS13391 asks. It opens and fills on any phone, tablet or computer. It is NOT an official Government of Alberta form.

The official form is at cfr.forms.gov.ab.ca/form/AAS13391. It only opens in Adobe Acrobat Reader on a computer.

Before you send this copy, ask your worker: "Will you accept this working copy of AAS13391?" If they say no, ask them to email or mail you the official form.

This copy was rebuilt from the current official version, AAS13391 Rev. 2026-07, downloaded from the government site on 18 October 2026.

What this form is for

This is the consent form that lets information about you move between the government and somebody else. You name who is handing the information over, who is receiving it, exactly what information, and why. You can also use it to consent on behalf of another person if you are their authorized representative.

It is the one consent form that covers eleven different programs. That is unusual and worth knowing, because the same form works whether the question is about AISH, your child's FSCD file, PDD, or a health benefit.

The eleven programs on the form

- Alberta Adult Health Benefits
- Alberta Child Health Benefits
- Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped (AISH)
- Alberta Disability Assistance Program (ADAP)
- Career and Employment Information Services (CEIS)
- Child Support Services
- Disability Related Employment Supports (DRES)
- Family Support for Children with Disabilities (FSCD)
- Income Support
- Persons with Developmental Disabilities (PDD)
- Residential Access Modification Program (RAMP)

Three things worth knowing

- You can take it back. The form says: "I understand that I may revoke this consent in writing at any time." Put it in writing, keep a copy, note the date.
- Be specific about what you are releasing. The form asks you to describe the information, who releases it, who receives it, and why. A vague consent releases more than you meant.
- Set an expiry date. The form has an expiry date field. If you leave it blank, nothing stops the consent running on.

Who counts as an authorized representative

The official form lists these, and says the list is not closed:

- Guardian of an individual under 18, under section 54(1)(e) of the Protection of Privacy Act and section 104(1)(c) of the Health Information Act.

- Guardian or trustee appointed for an adult under the Adult Guardianship and Trustee Act, under POPA section 54(1)(b) and HIA section 104(1)(e).
- An agent designated under the Personal Directives Act, under POPA section 54(1)(c) and HIA section 104(1)(f).
- A person granted power of attorney, under POPA section 54(1)(d) and HIA section 104(1)(g).
- A person with written authorization from the individual to act on their behalf, under POPA section 54(1)(f) and HIA section 104(1)(i).

Before you send this in

- Ask your worker whether they will accept this working copy. If they will not, ask them to email or mail you the official AAS13391.
- Fill in the expiry date. A consent with no end date keeps working.
- Name the exact information, not a general category, if you can. "My 2026 medical report" releases less than "my health information".
- Keep a copy, and note the date you sent it and who you sent it to.
- If you change your mind, write to the program and say you revoke the consent. Keep that letter too.

Where this came from

Rebuilt by ADSB from the official AAS13391 Rev. 2026-07, downloaded from https://cfr.forms.gov.ab.ca/form/AAS13391 on 18 October 2026. The consent paragraph, the program list and the authorized representative list are the government's own. The guide pages are ADSB's.
