

Where this comes from

Every source behind the FSCD material on this site — the instruments, the manuals, the forms, and the eight forms the public cannot get

The Alberta Disability System Breakdown · September 2026

WHY THIS PAGE EXISTS

You should not have to take our word for anything.

Every figure, deadline and quotation in our FSCD material comes from a document you can open yourself. This page lists all of them, with the address, the version we read, and the date we read it. Where a document has a currency date printed on it, that date is here too, so you can tell whether what you are reading has moved since.

We also list what we could not get, and why. Eight FSCD forms named in the program's own procedures are not available to the public. Those are named at the end.

PART 1 — THE LAW

The order matters. A statute beats a regulation, a regulation beats a policy manual, and a policy manual beats a guidance webpage. When they disagree — and on FSCD they sometimes do — the one higher up the list wins.

Document	What it is	Version we read	Where
Family Support for Children with Disabilities Act, SA 2003 c F-5.3	The statute. Sets the appeal right, the 45-day clock, mediation, and the appeal committee	Current as of June 17, 2021 — the current consolidation, confirmed 28 September 2026	Alberta King's Printer, kings-printer.alberta.ca
FSCD Regulation, AR 140/2004	Sets every service cap, the factors a decision-maker must consider, and who may be paid to provide services	Current as of June 25, 2025, consolidated up to AR 158/2025	Alberta King's Printer

One thing to know about the Act's date. June 17, 2021 looks old. It is not out of date — it is the current consolidation, which means the Act has not been amended since. We checked the live King's Printer copy on 28 September 2026 and it carries the same date.

One thing to know about the Regulation. Section 8 says it expires on June 30, 2029, for review. Every service cap in the children's system sits inside a document with a sunset date.

PART 2 — THE POLICY LAYER

Document	What it is	Version	Where
FSCD Policy and Procedures Manual	What the program tells staff its policy is. Where the review process, the 90-day documents rule and the service descriptions live	Archived by us 16 September 2026 ; the site's own Latest Updates page showed an update of 20 February 2026	manuals.alberta.ca/fscd-policy-manual
FSCD Internal Operational Procedures	The layer below policy — what a caseworker is told to do. 71 procedures across 176 pages	Dated January 27, 2025 , marked Classification: Public on every page	Linked from the foot of the policy manual home page

The operational procedures are public and almost nobody knows they exist. The policy manual itself says "You are not required to log in to access operational procedures." They are where the dental payment route, the pre-payment arrangement process and the 60-day pre-expiry contact rule are written down.

PART 3 — THE GUIDANCE PAGES

These are the pages a parent is usually pointed to. They are useful, and they are the furthest from the law — so where they differ from the Act, we say so.

All read 28 September 2026, on alberta.ca:

- Family Support for Children with Disabilities (FSCD) — the landing page
- FSCD — How to apply
- FSCD — Resources
- FSCD — Supports and services
- Family Support for Children with Disabilities — Appeal a decision
- Appeals Secretariat — Forms and contacts

PART 4 — THE FORMS

All pulled 28 September 2026 from the Government of Alberta Central Form Repository, cfr.forms.gov.ab.ca, and from the federal form catalogues. The government's own form numbers are used throughout — quote the number when you phone and it removes an entire conversation about which form you mean.

Open these in Adobe Reader on a computer. The Alberta forms are dynamic PDFs; a phone browser will show you a placeholder page rather than the form.

Alberta — FSCD (19 forms)

Number	Form
FSCD3593	Individualized Family Support Plan (IFSP)
FSCD3561	Request for Review of an FSCD Program Decision
AAS13358	Notice of Appeal
PDDFSCD10925	Request for Mediation of a PDD or FSCD Decision
AAS13391	Consent to Release Information
FSCD1845	Statement of Expense
FSCD12859	Confirmation of Medical Appointment or Hospital Stay
FSCD0056	Request for Dental and Orthodontic Treatment Assistance
FSCD12556	Medical Benefits Significant Financial Hardship Calculation
FSCD12344	Specialized Services — Checklist for Parents
FSCD12348	Specialized Services Coversheet
FSCD12349	Specialized Services — Multi-Disciplinary Team Recommendations
FSCD12355	Exceptional Consideration Authorization
FSCD13335	Child's Daily Routine Schedule
FSCD12615	Individualized Family Support Plan — Out of Home
FSCD12633	Out of Home Living Arrangement Request
FSCD0013	Transition to Adulthood Pathway
FSCD0011	Tip Sheet — Key Elements of Integrated Transition Planning
FSCD0012	Tip Sheet — Involving a Youth in the Transition Case Conference

Fifteen of these are on the manual's own published list. Four are not. FSCD12859 was found on the Resources page; the three transition documents were found in the operational procedures.

Federal — the Disability Tax Credit chain (8 files)

Number	Form	From
T2201	Disability Tax Credit Certificate — fillable, print, and large print	Canada Revenue Agency
RC66	Canada Child Benefits Application — fillable and print	Canada Revenue Agency
EMP5608	Canada Disability Savings Grant and/or Bond application	Service Canada / ESDC
EMP5609	RDSP Annex A — joint holder	Service Canada / ESDC
EMP5610	RDSP Annex B — primary caregiver	Service Canada / ESDC

The order is the point. The T2201 comes first. The Child Disability Benefit attaches automatically to the Canada child benefit once the DTC is approved, so RC66 plus an approved T2201 is the pair that pays. And no form opens an RDSP — a financial institution does that, and EMP5608 then applies for the government money.

PART 5 — THE EIGHT FORMS YOU CANNOT GET

These are named in the program's own operational procedures. We went to the government's public form repository for each one. All eight are refused.

Number	Form	What the repository returns
FSCD0005	Transition to Adulthood Plan (TAP)	Access refused
FSCD0006	Transition to Adulthood — Transition Planning Checklist	Access refused
FSCD0007	Transition to Adulthood — Record Keeping Checklist	Access refused
FSCD0003	Record of Services Provided (ROSP)	Access refused
FSCD0467	Service Provider's Program Plan	Access refused
FSCD12081	Decision Letter for Specialized Services	Access refused
FSCD13336	Specialized Services Documentation — FSCD Worker Checklist	Access refused
FSCD3594	Verification of On or Off Reserve Status for Funding Purposes	Access refused

The repository's own wording: "Access to Protected forms is granted only to 'Government of Alberta Employees', or authorized Government of Alberta Agents."

Read the first three again. Transition planning is supposed to begin at 16, for every youth, and the plan is meant to pull together adult programs, Education and Health so that supports exist on the day a young person turns 18. The plan itself, and both of its checklists, are staff-only.

A parent can be told transition planning has started. A parent cannot read the document it is being done on.

We are not saying anyone did anything improper. Protected forms exist for ordinary administrative reasons. We are saying that a family cannot check a plan they cannot see, and that the decision letter for specialized services — FSCD12081, the letter that tells you yes or no — is on the same list.

PART 6 — THINGS WE LOOKED FOR AND DID NOT FIND

A gap is only worth reporting if you say what you searched for. These are ours.

There is no rate table. Not in the policy manual, not in the 176 pages of operational procedures. The procedures contain 549 fill-in placeholders of the form $ (rate) and thirteen dollar figures in total — six of which are fines for privacy offences, three are a feeding-cost formula, and two are $0 entries for dental. The respite clause reads "not to exceed $ (rate) per". A caseworker implementing the policy is handed a blank.

There is no rule on balance billing. We searched the complete operational procedures for: top-up, balance, difference in cost, exceeds the rate, above the rate, parent pays, additional cost to the family, private pay, out of pocket, invoice, charge, surcharge, co-pay, shortfall, and pay the difference. Nothing permits a provider to bill a family the difference, and nothing prohibits it. The practice is unaddressed.

There is no review provision in the Act or the Regulation. Both were searched. The Act gives you mediation (s.6) and appeal (s.7). The Request for Review, its 30-day clock, and the rule that it does not pause your appeal clock are policy only — while the 45-day clock it fails to pause is statutory.

HOW TO CHECK US

Everything above can be opened by anyone. If you find we have something wrong, tell us and we will correct it publicly, in the same place, under our name.

Alberta King's Printer — the Act and the Regulation, in their current consolidations.

manuals.alberta.ca/fscd-policy-manual — the policy manual, and the operational procedures linked at the foot of it. cfr.forms.gov.ab.ca — the Central Form Repository. Search by the form number. canada.ca — T2201 and RC66. Service Canada eForms catalogue — the RDSP forms.

Compiled 28 September 2026. Every document listed was opened and read; nothing here is quoted second-hand. Not legal advice.

The Alberta Disability System Breakdown · St. Albert, Alberta