

Request to Stop the $200 CDB Deduction

For people actively applying who are not yet receiving the Canada Disability Benefit

WHEN TO USE THIS FORM

Use this letter if AISH is deducting the $200 Canada Disability Benefit (CDB) amount from your cheque while you are still applying for the DTC or the CDB and have not yet received a decision. You are not receiving that federal money yet, so this letter asks AISH to stop deducting it while your application is in progress, and to confirm in writing how anything already taken will be handled.

BEFORE YOU SEND THIS

Have your application date and any reference numbers handy. If you have not yet told AISH that you are applying, this letter does that. You can also report your status through the government's status form at alberta.ca/aish-apply-for-federal-disability-supports.

HOW TO USE THIS FORM

1. Fill in the date, your name, your AISH file number, and your AISH office at the top of the letter (page 2).
2. Check the boxes that apply to you and fill in the date you applied.
3. In the box, add anything about your situation, including any delay AISH caused (for example, lost or resubmitted forms).
4. Sign and date the letter (page 3).
5. Send it to your AISH office. The full contact list is on the last page. Email is easiest, and your sent email is your proof.
6. Keep a copy for your records.

WHERE IT GOES: your AISH office. The full contact list is on the last page of this form.

Re: Request to stop the $200 Canada Disability Benefit deduction while my application is in progress

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing about the $200 Canada Disability Benefit amount currently being deducted from my AISH benefit. I am actively applying for the following, and I have not yet received a decision:

I have applied for the Disability Tax Credit (DTC)

I have applied for the Canada Disability Benefit (CDB)

My application is under review or they have requested more information from me

Date I applied _____ Decision expected _____

Anything else about my application (optional)

Maximum: 900 characters. If AISH lost or delayed your forms, say so here — it puts their error on the record.

I am not currently receiving any Canada Disability Benefit payment, because my application has not yet been decided. Despite this, $200 is being deducted from my AISH benefit as though I were already receiving the federal payment. I am requesting the following.

1. Stop the deduction while my application is in progress.

Please stop deducting the $200 Canada Disability Benefit amount from my benefit while I am actively applying and not receiving any Canada Disability Benefit. It is my understanding that the Government of Alberta has stated that recipients who are actively applying and keeping AISH informed of their status should not have this amount deducted. I am asking you to confirm that this applies to my file and to stop the deduction.

2. Confirm the authority and the calculation in writing.

Please confirm, in writing, the legal authority under which this $200 is being deducted from me, and provide a month-by-month accounting of every amount deducted to date.

3. Confirm in writing how the deducted amounts will be reconciled.

Please confirm, in writing, how the amounts already taken from me will be handled once my application is decided:

- If my application is denied, I will not have received any Canada Disability Benefit, and I am requesting that every amount deducted be repaid to me in full as an underpayment.
- If my application is approved with back pay, I am requesting written confirmation that the amounts already deducted are credited against that back pay — and that any amount deducted that is more than the Canada Disability Benefit I receive is repaid to me — so that the same months are not recovered from me twice and I am not deducted more than I receive.

I am keeping a copy of this letter for my records, and I would appreciate a written response.

Sincerely,

Signature
