

WORKING OUT THE 2% AMOUNT

FSCD medical benefits · Accessible fillable version · The Alberta Disability System Breakdown · September 2026

HOW THIS WORKS

FSCD helps with some medical costs for your child. Not all of them. You pay the first part yourself. That first part is 2% of what you and the other parent earn. FSCD may cover costs above that. This sheet works out your number before the meeting, so you can check theirs.

WHAT THIS IS

A working sheet for you. Not something you send in. Take it to your meeting, or attach it if you want to.

WHAT THIS IS NOT

It is NOT an official Government of Alberta form. The government's own version, FSCD12556, is on the Government of Alberta forms site (cfr.forms.gov.ab.ca), and it will not open on a phone.

IF A WORD HERE IS NEW TO YOU

We keep a plain list of what these words mean, called The Words They Use. It is free on our site.

WHAT YOU WILL NEED BEFORE YOU START

Get these together first. It is easier than stopping halfway.

- Last year's tax return for you, and for the other parent if their income counts. See Step 1.
- Receipts or quotes for what you are paying.
- Any letters saying another plan or program turned you down. These matter. See Step 3.
- A calculator. There is only one sum, and it is in Step 2.

STEP 1: ADD UP THE INCOME

Finding the number. You need line 23600 from last year's tax return. It is near the bottom of page 4 and it is labelled net income. Not your gross pay: the net income line.

Whose income counts. Yours, if your child lives with you. The other parent's too, if your child lives with them. And this part surprises people: the other parent's income also counts if your child WOULD live with them but cannot, because their home cannot meet your child's needs.

Parent 1: line 23600

Up to 20 characters.

Parent 2: line 23600

Leave blank if it does not apply.

Up to 20 characters.

A. Add them together

Up to 20 characters.

STEP 2: WORK OUT 2%

B. Multiply A by 0.02

That is the same as dividing by 50. This is the part you pay yourself. FSCD may help with costs above it.

Up to 20 characters.

STEP 3: WHAT YOU ARE PAYING

List the medical things your child needs because of their disability, and what each one costs.

If you have another child with a disability who is also on an FSCD agreement, their costs go in here too. Both children count towards the same 2%. This one is easy to miss.

Your list

One item per line, with what it costs.

Up to 1,500 characters.

C. Total

Up to 20 characters.

D. Take B away from C

This is the part FSCD may help with.

Up to 20 characters.

Four things they will ask

The rules say FSCD can only help if all four are true. Tick the ones you can answer. Explain how below.

- ☐ Your child needs it to stay well. Without it they would get much worse.
- ☐ No other plan or program pays for it. This counts even if you were turned down.
- ☐ It is a normal, accepted treatment. Not experimental.
- ☐ You can get it in Alberta.

How each one is true

Short notes are fine. Name the proof you have for each: a letter, a report, a prescription.

Up to 1,500 characters.

Who else you asked first

You have to try other places first. Your work benefits. Blue Cross. Any other program. A refusal letter is useful: keep it, and say here that you have it.

Up to 1,000 characters.

Your name

Up to 80 characters.

Today's date

Year, month, day.

Up to 20 characters.

FOUR THINGS WORTH KNOWING

- Dental is different. It has its own rule. FSCD may help with the part your dental plan does not cover. If you have no dental plan at all, you pay the first $250 each year.
- A dental committee has to recommend the treatment first.
- A dental approval runs out after one year. Ask them in writing when yours expires.
- If someone tells you there is a maximum, ask where that number is written down. For most things, FSCD does not publish its rates.

Where these rules come from: the FSCD Regulation, sections 4(1)(k), 4(4) and 4(1)(j). Read 28 September 2026. Not legal advice.
