

NOTICE OF APPEAL — PDD

Accessible fillable version · The Alberta Disability System Breakdown · September 2026

YOU HAVE 45 DAYS. The clock starts the day they told you the decision. If you asked for mediation first, you get 30 days from the day mediation ends instead. Asking PDD to review the decision does NOT stop this clock. Only mediation stops it. The rule is section 15(3)(b) of the PDD Act.

What this is. The words below are copied from the appeal form that is written into the PDD rules themselves. So it is the right wording. We rebuilt it because the government file, PDD0021, will not open on a phone. Its own first page says so. A form with a deadline on it should open on a phone.

Worth knowing: the Act starts the 45 days from the day you were notified of the decision. This form, which is the regulation's own wording, asks for the day you got the decision AND were told of your right to appeal. If those were different days, say both, here or in a covering note.

SECTION 4 — DISPUTE RESOLUTION

I understand that before proceeding with a formal hearing of my appeal this matter can be referred to a dispute resolution process to attempt to resolve the matter.

- ☐ I agree to having my appeal referred to a dispute resolution process
- ☐ I do not agree to having my appeal referred to a dispute resolution process

Date (year / month / day)

Signature of the person affected by the decision, or the guardian or agent

Typing your name above is enough for most filing. If you are printing and mailing it, sign it by hand as well.

WHERE TO SEND IT

Send it to the Appeals Secretariat, and address it to the Minister. That covers every version of the rule. The Act says the appeal goes to an appeal panel. The written rules say the notice is addressed to the Minister, and that someone working for the Minister can accept it. The government website says to send it to the Appeals Secretariat. Doing both keeps you safe whichever one they go by.

Ask your Disability Services office to confirm in writing that they got it.

BEFORE YOU SEND IT

- Send it a way that proves you sent it. Registered mail, or email where you can show it went. Most appeals are lost on the date, not on the facts.
- Keep a copy of every page, including anything you attach.
- Write down the date you sent it and how you sent it. Keep that note with your copy.
- Send it within 45 days even if you are still talking to PDD, or waiting on papers, or have asked for a review. None of those stop the clock. Only mediation stops it.
- If you miss the 45 days, you can still ask. The Minister is allowed to give you more time. Ask in writing, say why you were late, and say what your appeal is about.
