

MOVE FAST, BREAK THINGS

An accountability submission from Albertans to their elected representatives.

You are not asking for a favour. You are asking your MLA to answer for a documented record.

Across health, disability, transparency, and data, one government has moved at speed and, in the rush, broken the protections meant to keep people safe. This submission sets out four documented examples, each traceable to the government's own published record, and asks the recipient one question: where do you stand, and what will you do.

Fill in your own story and details, then send it. The more of us who send it, the harder it is to ignore.

YOUR STORY

This is the evidence. It is the part they cannot dismiss as politics.

In your own words, tell them how these changes affect you or someone you care for. You do not need the right terms. Plain and true is what lands.

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin dark blue border, intended for the user to write their story. It occupies the central portion of the page below the introductory text.

Maximum 900 characters (about 150 words). Keep it to what matters most to you.

THE DOCUMENTED RECORD

Four examples. Each traceable to the government's own published record.

1. The disability cut (ADAP)

On July 1, 2026 (the regulation says July 2), roughly 79,000 Albertans on AISH are moved to the new ADAP program unless they fall into four narrow categories. ADAP pays $1,740 a month against the AISH rate of $1,940, a $200 cut. A transition top-up holds payments at the current amount only until December 31, 2027; the reduction lands January 2028. No one was individually assessed before being moved, and the independent appeal that used to catch mistakes has been removed.

2. The transparency rollback

The former Freedom of Information law was replaced by a new Access to Information Act. It allows the government to withhold records created by or for the Premier, ministers, and Treasury Board, including emails. The Information and Privacy Commissioner publicly warned this significantly reduces Albertans' right of access, and had already found the government non-compliant in how it processes access requests.

3. The voter-data breach

In May 2026, the Elections Alberta List of Electors, the personal information of roughly 2.9 million Albertans, was distributed and used without authorization. The Privacy Commissioner described it as the worst breach involving voter data in Canadian history.

4. The health-system restructure (AHS)

Alberta Health Services, the province's single health authority, has been broken into four separate agencies. The teardown is costed at roughly $85 million over two years, with administration spending projected to keep climbing. No taxpayer savings have been confirmed, and frontline workers describe confusion and fragmentation.

The pattern these four share:

Speed without process. No consultation, no individual assessment, no oversight, no time for the safeguards to work. And each time, the breakage lands hardest on the people with the least cushion to absorb it.

THE ASK, AND WHO YOU ARE

Every representative who receives this has a question to answer.

To the representative receiving this: I am your constituent, or a fellow Albertan, and I am asking you to put your position on the public record. This is not a request to remove anyone. It is a request to answer.

- What is your position on the documented harm set out in this submission?
- What will you do, in your role, to address it?
- If you support these changes, will you say so plainly to the people they affect?

I would like a written reply stating your position. A non-answer is itself an answer, and I will note it as one.
