

Asking for Special Needs Assistance for Seniors

Special Needs Assistance for Seniors | Official form SNA3761 (2026/07) | Built Revised 3 October 2026

About this form

This is a fillable working copy built by The Alberta Disability System Breakdown. It captures everything the official Special Needs Assistance for Seniors Request form (SNA3761, July 2026) asks, and it opens and fills on any phone, tablet or computer. It is NOT an official Government of Alberta form.

The official version: form SNA3761 (2026/07), with the Special Needs Assistance for Seniors Information Booklet, from alberta.ca/seniors-financial-assistance, or by calling the Alberta Supports Contact Centre at 1-877-644-9992.

This is not legal advice. Read the guide pages first, then fill in the form pages.

What this form is for

This form asks the government to pay for specific things a senior with a low income needs and cannot afford: an appliance that broke, health supplies, help with clean-up or moving a washer and dryer, and more. You list each item and what it costs, and you send proof of the cost.

The government's Information Booklet sets out who can ask and what counts. Read it alongside this guide. The numbers below are from the government's own funding maximums document for July to December 2026.

The income limits, July to December 2026

	Single senior	Senior couple
Primary items (most appliances, health supports and personal supports)	$32,690	$53,800
Secondary items (microwave, TV, vacuum, housekeeping and yard, respite)	$28,290	$45,600

The most the program pays a household in a year is $5,872.

These limits went down on 1 July 2026

From January to June 2026 the primary limits were $34,770 (single) and $56,820 (couple), and the secondary limits were $30,370 and $48,620. On 1 July every limit dropped: by $2,080 for a single senior and $3,020 for a couple. If you were turned down after 1 July and your income sits between the old and new limits, that cut is the reason.

Before you start, have these ready

- Your Personal Health Number, and your spouse or partner's if you have one.
- An estimate, quote or receipt for each item you are asking for. The form says the program needs these to consider an expense.
- If you want someone else to be able to talk to the program for you: their name, relationship to you and phone number.

How to fill it out

Section 1: personal information

Your Personal Health Number and name. If you are married, common-law or in an adult interdependent relationship, fill in your spouse or partner's too. Then your mailing address and phone number.

Section 2: assistance required

List each item and the amount you are asking for. There is room for three. If you need more, use a separate sheet with your name on it. Attach the estimate or receipt for each one.

Section 3: authorization (optional)

Fill this in only if you want the program to be able to contact a family member, friend or advocate about your request, and share your information with them. The government's booklet explains this on page 4.

Section 4: signatures

You and your spouse or partner must both sign, or the request will not be accepted. Print the form and sign by hand.

What you agree to when you sign

By signing, you agree to give the program any information it needs to assess your request, and to account for how any money you receive is used. Keep every receipt for anything the program pays for.

Where it goes

- Online: upload it at seniors.alberta.ca/submit-documents. This is the route the form itself names. Print, sign, then upload a clear photo or scan.
- Fax: 780-422-5954
- Mail: Alberta Assisted Living and Social Services, Special Needs Assistance, PO Box 3100, Edmonton, Alberta T5J 4W3

What happens after

The program reviews your request and tells you its decision. The program says its decision letter will tell you four things: the decision, the law it was made under, the evidence it looked at, and the reasons.

If the answer is no, or less than you asked for

You can appeal. Section 9 of the Seniors Benefit Act General Regulation (AR 213/94) lets you appeal whether you qualify and how much you were paid. The appeal has three steps, in order.

Our Appealing a Special Needs Assistance for Seniors decision packet walks you through all three and puts your case in writing.

If you cannot meet the necessities of life, section 8.2 of the same regulation allows a payment of up to $5,000. The regulation also says you must have been an Alberta resident for at least 3 months before you apply, in section 3(1)(b). The program page only says you must be an Alberta resident, with no time on it. If you moved here recently, apply anyway and say how long you have lived in Alberta. Name section 8.2 in writing.
